A Message From Father Carlos / Un Mensaje de Padre Carlos

Mi querida familia de Santa Faustina,

Estamos en el Domingo 14 del Tiempo Ordinario. La Palabra de Dios de hoy en el evangelio, nos cuenta el momento en el que Jesús regresa a su tierra en compañía de sus discípulos. Y cuando llegó el sábado, se puso a enseñar en la sinagoga. Las personas que lo escuchaba se cuestionaban, se extrañaban: ¿Dónde aprendió este hombre tantas cosas? ¿De dónde le viene esa sabiduría y ese poder para hacer milagros? ¿Qué no es éste el carpintero...?

Los de su pueblo que le conocían, sabían que Jesús, no tenía poder cultural como los escribas. Que no era un intelectual con estudios. Que tampoco poseía el poder sagrado de los sacerdotes del templo. Que no había estudiado en ninguna escuela rabínica. Jesús era un «hijo de carpintero». La gente, menos los de su pueblo, lo veía como un maestro que enseñaba a entender y vivir la vida de manera diferente. Sus vecinos quedaron sorprendidos por dos cosas: la sabiduría de su corazón y la fuerza curadora de sus manos. Pero los de su pueblo no se dejaron enseñar por él, ni se abrieron a su fuerza sanadora. Jesús no pudo acercarlos a Dios, ni curar a todos como él hubiera querido. Y nosotros, ¿Nos dejamos enseñar de Jesús y nos abrimos a su fuerza sanadora?

Hermanos y hermanas, para entender y conocer a Jesús hay que entrar en contacto con él. Dejar que vaya introduciendo poco a poco en nosotros cosas tan decisivas como la alegría de vivir, la compasión o la voluntad de crear un mundo mejor. Es necesario dejarnos sanar por él: recuperar poco a poco la libertad interior, liberarnos de miedos que nos frenan, atrevernos a salir de la mediocridad. Jesús sigue hoy queriendo sanarnos. Sólo se curan quienes creen en Él.
¡Ánimo!

En Cristo,,
Padre Carlos

My dear family of St. Faustina,

We are on the 14th Sunday of Ordinary Time. Today's Word of God in the Gospel tells us when Jesus returns to his homeland in the company of his disciples. And when the Sabbath came, he began to teach in the synagogue. The people who listened to him wondered: Where did this man learn so many things? Where did he get this wisdom and this power to work miracles? Isn't this the carpenter...?

Those of his people who knew him knew that Jesus did not have cultural power like the scribes. That he was not an intellectual with studies. Nor did he possess the sacred power of the priests of the temple. He said that he had not studied in any rabbinical school. Jesus was a "carpenter's son." People, except those in his village, saw him as a teacher who taught them to understand and live differently. His neighbors were amazed by two things: his heart's wisdom and his hands' healing power. But his townspeople did not allow themselves to be taught by him, nor were they open to his healing power. Jesus could not bring them closer to God nor heal them all as he would have wished. And do we allow ourselves to be taught by Jesus and open ourselves to his healing power?

Brothers and sisters, to understand and know Jesus, we must contact him. Let him gradually introduce such decisive things as the joy of living, compassion, and the will to create a better world for us. It is necessary to let ourselves be healed by him: to recover little by little our inner freedom, to free ourselves from fears that hold us back, and to dare to leave mediocrity behind. Jesus still wants to heal us today. Only those who believe in him can be healed. Courage!

In Christ,
Father Carlos

St. Mark Ji Tianxiang

By Marylu Mariniello

Mark Ji Tianxiang was born in the Jizhou District of Zhili (now Hebei), China, in 1834. His early life was ordinary. He married young, raised a family, and practiced his Catholic faith. He was a doctor and often treated poor patients for free.

When Mark Ji was in his thirties, he became ill with a stomach disorder and medicated himself with opium, recovering soon but now had a dependency on opioids.

He ostracized friends and family with this habit. They were disgusted and ashamed of him for causing humiliation in the family. This attitude bothered him, so he repeatedly tried to overcome the addiction but was unsuccessful. He spoke of his struggles at confession over and over but still needed the opium. Finally, his confessor told Mark that the only way to receive absolution was to overcome his dependence, but thirty years later, Mark was still addicted.

The priest thought that Ji lacked sorrow for his addiction. Still, Ji attended Mass even though he could not receive Communion. He raised his family to be Catholic, donated money to the Church, and continued to treat the poor without pay. Ji had no bitterness for not getting absolution, acknowledging his addiction. He prayed daily to die a martyr, believing this type of death was his only chance of gaining heaven.

On July 7, 1900, Mark Ji and a group of fellow Christians were rounded up and jailed during the Boxer Rebellion, including his son, six grandchildren, and two daughters-in-law. Ji was given a chance to renounce his faith, but he refused. When they were taken away to be killed, he asked that he be executed last so that no member of his family would die alone. He watched as all of his family were beheaded. One hundred nineteen other Catholics were killed that day, including St. Augustine Zhao Rong.

Ji was never able to beat his addiction, but he had perseverance. No threat could distress him, and no torture made him waver. He was determined to go to Heaven and see God, who had never abandoned him. He is a witness to the Lord's grace, who works in hidden ways. God makes great saints of the most unlikely people even when the person is being driven away, as by the priest who denied Ji absolution. This shows that anybody can become a saint, especially a man who was deprived of Communion by the church for being a public scandal.

Drug abuse is a sin, but addiction is also a disease. In these times, addicts today are not excluded from the sacraments because of their situation.

Ji had great confidence in God's mercy even though he knew that he was a sinner who behaved badly. He despaired in his futile struggles, but he persevered in his faith. In the end, he went to his death confidently, knowing and trusting that he had God's love. When his turn came, Ji died singing the Litany of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Mark Ji Tianxiang was beatified on November 24, 1946, by Pope Pius XII along with the other Chinese martyrs and canonized by Pope John Paul II on October 1, 2000.

St. Mark Ji Tianxiang is the patron saint of drug addicts, and his feast day is July 9.
